AZTEC OF THE MONTH

“My experience at SDSU has been filled with many rewarding moments; growing on both a scholarly and personal level with each new semester, I have expanded my educational boundaries and pushed myself out of my comfort zone to see how much I can handle. The journey has been full of determination and focus; taking an average of 8 to 9 classes per semester, learning Mandarin through the Confucius Institute on campus, and spending long hours in the library, I have redefined the parameters of what I thought I could previously do. However, the experience has also been fun and exhilarating; bonding with my classmates and developing connections with new people has been a high point here at SDSU. The best college experience that I have had here has been getting to know the diverse population of students and instructors on a deeper level; I will always remember the friendships forged here and take them with me as I progress to the next chapter of my life. After graduation, my plans are to become a high school English teacher and help inspire students to perceive the world from different perspectives; eventually, I also plan on moving to China to help teach English to natives in remotely located villages. After living abroad for a period of time, I plan on coming back to the United States and obtaining a position as a college English professor; throughout the course of my life, I would also like to write a novel describing my experiences. When I am not at school, I spend my time working as a substitute teacher at local high schools in the Imperial Valley; in addition, I teach spin classes every morning in El Centro to help work off the stress of the week. Although my schedule is pretty hectic, I also try to make time to do fun things whenever I have the opportunity; a few of my hobbies include traveling to new places, hiking, kayaking, long distance running, and skydiving. Some long-term goals of mine include hiking from Mexico to Canada along the Pacific Crest Trail and bicycling across America from coast to coast; with my invaluable time spent here at SDSU, I believe anything is possible if one puts their mind to it!”
